

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

CTI partners with Brandt to serve Kansas farmers.

Full line of premium grain handling products now available locally.

Brandt Agricultural Products is pleased to announce the newest addition to their rapidly growing Southern U.S. dealer network; Kansas-based CTI will now be providing premium-quality Brandt products to their local farmers.

"We are pleased to be adding CTI to our team. They are a highly-respected group with a strong reputation for outstanding customer service," says Brandt Agricultural Products' Southern U.S. Sales Manager, Russell Solomon.

With 4 locations across north-eastern Kansas, CTI gives Brandt a strong presence in an important market; enhancing the company's ability to provide premium-quality grain handling equipment and proactive, locally-based service to Kansas farmers.

"CTI is excited about the broad offering of Brandt products and their reputation for high-quality grain handling equipment," says CTI's Operations Manager, Marc Swanson.

Brandt Agricultural Products engineers and manufactures the most complete line of premium grain handling equipment on the market. Their complete line of augers, conveyors, grain vacs, grain carts, heavy harrows, and grain bag loading and unloading equipment is distributed across the United States, Canada, and around the world.
